Which regulations govern the cosmetics market in Europe and the United States?

The European Parliament and Council Regulation (EC) No. 1223/2009 establishes harmonized rules at the European level for the production, distribution, assessment, and control of any adverse effects related to cosmetic products. This regulation also ensures product traceability throughout the supply chain to the consumer.

The US FDA issued a regulation titled "Cosmetic Good Manufacturing Practices" in June 2013, initiating a process of harmonizing its regulations with the ISO 22716:2008 standard for cosmetic good manufacturing practices.

In December 2022, the United States ratified the Modernization of Cosmetics Regulation Act (MoCRA), expanding the regulatory authority of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) over cosmetic companies and introducing many significant changes. These new regulations entail the implementation of additional requirements for companies producing and distributing cosmetics in America. Some of these new regulations will take effect as early as 2023.
